

How to use:

- Print, cut, and laminate
- This resource provides animated and real life pictures
- You can and should use both samples for generalization
- You can use the images for non-identical matching
- You're always encouraged to use other images and objects when working with your client
- This resource can be used for a variety of programs, such as labeling, receptive identification, categorizing, and more
- To make double sided copies: Make sure you're selecting "Short-edge Binding." Keep in mind the images may be facing a different direction, but this should not affect your ability to use the images as intended.
- You may use and share this FREE resource as desired
- You may not sell this resource as your own
- If you're pleased with this resource, all we ask is that you share about Behaviorfy with others!

Much love,

Behaviorfy

